SCHOOL REPORT.

In conformity to the requirements of the statutes. we respectfully submit the following report of the public schools of Barnstead :

After making ourselves familiar with the provisions of the law, the condition of the school houses and the residence of the scholars, we decided to open schools at the following houses, viz. : Locke's Corner, North, White Oaks, Shackford, Pitman, Clarktown, Centre, Beauty Hill, Parade, and Bickford, and schools were opened at such houses. It was soon apparent that the number of pupils at the Locke's Corner school did not warrant its continuance; scholars we expected to attend there attended school out of town or neglected to attend school. While we were considering the propriety of consolidating this school with the one at the North, Miss Perkins, the teacher of the Parade school, resigned, and we transferred Miss Nettie F. Foss, teacher of the Pitman school, to the Parade school and placed Mrs. Locke, the teacher of the Locke's Corner school, in charge of the Pitman school, making arrangements with Mrs. Locke for the conveyance of her pupils to that school. With these changes the first term of our schools was kept as originally designed. The number of pupils at the North school was small. For the second and third terms, the North school was united with the Locke's Corner school, the school being kept at the latter house, and schools were maintained at all the other houses first named.

With the exceptions above stated the schools have been of the uniform length of twenty-five weeks,* divided into three terms. We believe better results have been attained than with longer terms. With longer terms the pupils become weary and indifferent and the latter portion of the term is barren of good work.

In reporting the condition of the schools we shall speak in general terms. The schools have been successful; the teachers have labored faithfully and have been devoted to their trusts; the pupils, with few exceptions have been obedient and studious; in cases of tardiness, insubordination or idleness to which our attention has been called, the parents have generally been culpable. Pupils unaccustomed to obedience at home, fret under the restraints of the school room and are quite likely to rebel. Such pupils are to be pitied as well as blamed. It requires the exercise of patience and self-control by teachers, backed by the influence of the school board to govern such scholars. The utterance of unguarded words reflecting upon the character, manner or methods of teachers, by parents causes a large per cent of the trouble in our schools. If parents believe they have just cause of complaint, they ought at once to present their grievance to the teacher or school board in a friendly manner, instead of talking it in public places, often before scholars, neither the teacher or school board knowing of their complaints until long afterward. There should be one school of higher grade than we have, where the sons and daughters of Barnstead could be educated in the higher English branches usually taught in the acadmys, at a small expense, where all scholars of the required scholarship, could receive instruction while remaining under the care of their parents, surrounded by the restraining influences of home.

It is a defect in our present system of education that we require too many varieties of study. It not only affects the health of the pupil, which is of paramount importance, but the teachers are worn by the multiplicity of classes. Our fathers may have erred in the paucity of studies required in their day; if so, they erred in the right direction; their system produced healthy graduates, fitted physically as well as mentally for the practical duties of life.

We call your attention to the amount appropriated for the support of schools and urge every tax-payer to vote for a larger appropriation. For several years the town has voted $1200, which with the income from funds, etc., has usually amounted to $1500. This year in addition to this, we received $139.29, being the sum standing to the credit of former district No. 8, paid to the school board by the provisions of an act of the last legislature. The total amount received the present year from all sources, as will appear by the Treasurer's report, was $1678.46. If the town will annually appropriate a sum sufficient, with receipts from funds, dog tax, etc., to amount to a like sum, there could be schools maintained during six months of the year.

We trust if necessity compels us to economize in town expenses the appropriation for schools will be the last subject for retrenchment. Your attention is called to the condition of the schoolhouses. The Peacham house is unfit for occupancy; a large appropriation would be required to repair it. We suggest that the White Oak house which is in good condition be moved to near the line between former districts Nos. 4 and 11. If this is done the Peacham house might be sold.

Your attention is called to the propriety of selling the schoolhouse in former district No. 8, where there has been no school for many years.

The school houses at the North, Shackford, Clarktown, Center. Parade, Bickford and Dennett require repairs in a greater or less degree. The school board will be prepared at the annual school meeting to submit estimates of the sum required for repairs.

The board feel justified in calling the attention of the district to the matter of compensation for their services. Last year Alton paid $104, Belmont $123, Gilmanton $145, New Hampton $117, Sanbornton $145, for the services of their respective school boards. If these towns paid only fair and reasonable salaries, it is apparent that Barnstead, paying but $67, did not. Under the old law the superintendent received rising fifty dollars for his services. In addition to the performance of like services the school board are required to hire teachers, have the custody of the school houses, make necessary repairs and manage the prudential affairs of the district, services formerly performed by the prudential committees.

After another year's trial of the town system attended by the consolidation of several schools, it remains for the people to decide whether there has been any improvement. The money raised for schools has been appropriated in such a manner that each pupil could attend schools of equal length, viz., twenty-five weeks. This never occurred under the old law. It ought to overcome the opposition to the new law manifested by voters outside the two villages. When the new law went into effect many voters, good friends of education, feared the law would result in the upbuilding of the village schools at the expense of the others. The practical results of the past year must dissipate such fears.

We have tried to hire the best available teachers, made the houses as comfortable as their condition would admit, given equal privileges to all so far as practicable, made such suggestions to teachers and scholars as the occasion seemed to demand, and expended the money intrusted to our care economically; we may have made mistakes, to do so is human. We have learned, as did our predecessors, that the school board's ways are not always "ways of pleasantness nor paths of peace."
